

International Banking in an Age of Transition: -Globalisation, Automation, Banks and their Archives

The Editors

Sara Kinsey has worked in business archives for almost 20 years and is currently Global History Manager at HSBC Holdings plc. She has written widely on Banking History and archives and her publications include The Paradise Bank – a history of the Mercantile Bank of India; and The Good Companions: Wives and Families in the history of the HSBC Group.

Lucy Newton is Senior Lecturer and Director for undergraduate programmes at the Hensley School of Management at Reading University. Her research interest include Banking History, for example, the development of English banking in the 19th century, changes in English banking in the early 20th century as well as bank marketing/advertising in the 20th century or the history of women's investment. She has been a member of the Business Archives Council, editing of their annual journal Business Archives: Sources and History from 1995 and 1998. She was also elected to and served on the Council of the Association of Business Historians from 1997 to 2000. Afterwards she was elected as trustee of the Business History Conference, serving from 2003 to 2007